FOREWORD

THE PRESENT EXHIBITION consists of two groups of paintings: the first by Alfonso Grosso of Spain and the second by nineteen great American painters.

Senor Grosso has received many medals in the International Exhibitions held at Pittsburgh, Paris, London and Venice. The governments of Spain and France have purchased his paintings for their National Galleries.

His best known portraits include those of King Alfonso of Spain and one of his own mother; also two paintings of young American women, Miss Allen of Washington and Miss Rhodes of Pittsburgh, all of which are hanging in this exhibition.

His paintings are full of the life and color of that fascinating city where he was born, Seville in Andalusia. He has interpreted for us the effect of the intensely sunlit streets, the patios, the beautiful women and the unique and colorful festivals of Spain. There is a charm in the very word, Andalusia, and this charm one finds in his paintings. He has painted wandering gypsies, dancers, priests and prelates, the bull ring and the interiors of churches.

The painting of the Cathedral of Toledo, Spain, will be of especial interest to the people of Toledo, Ohio, the namesake of the old world city, especially as the King of Spain is sending a stone from the medieval cathedral to be installed in the new Spanish Gothic cathedral of our own city.

The second group of masterpieces by great American painters really needs no foreword. Each one of the artists is so well known and so loved by the Toledo public. They are represented in this exhibition by brilliant examples of their best work lent by the Macbeth and Milch Galleries of New York.
